

Garrett Stevens, Land Navigation

Garrett Stevens, a graduate of the inaugural 2018 Master Hunter class, has spent the last 20 years exploring wild corners of Montana. Originally from North Carolina, he came west in 2000 and settled in Bozeman. He enjoys being outside in any season, and chases powder in the winter with the same enthusiasm he has for chasing elk in the fall. His varied background includes stints as a professional mountain guide, marketing/advertising manager, carpenter, concrete laborer and more. Garrett is passionate about public access to public lands, and has an incredible appreciation for the opportunity to be a part of the conversation with Montana landowners about hunting access.
