

Josh Greer, Shooting Precision and Accuracy

I am an outdoor enthusiast who loves to share my experiences with others so they may find the joy in the great outdoors. I am an 8-year U.S. Navy veteran where I was the Small Arms Marksmanship Instructor at all three of the commands I served. After the Navy, I have continued to teach marksmanship instruction and compete in Precision Rifle Shooting competitions. In addition to teaching shooting precision and accuracy, I currently manage customer service for Arken Optics USA. I grew up with a shotgun in my hands and training dogs with my father from the age of five. There is something miraculous about training and watching a dog that you trained do its job in the field. I believe that as hunters it is our responsibility to ensure that the hunting and outdoor legacy is protected, and that we pass our knowledge to others to ensure our tradition is carried on.
